The New Outlook.

The attractive building shown above is the new Warner Observatory at Rochester, N. Y., which will be, when completed, by far the finest private astronomical observatory in the world. Its inauguration is certain to give a new impulse to the study of astronomy in this country, although America is already greatly distinguished by splendid discoveries which her astronomers have made. Among the prominent revelations which the United States has given to the astronomical world may be mentioned the following: The discovery of the eighth satellite of Saturn in 1848, by Prof. Bond; the transparent ring of Saturn in 1850 by Bond; the separation of Biela's comet into two parts, was first discovered in this country in 1845; the discovery of the two moons which accompany Mars was made by Prof. Hall, of Washington, and is one of the crowning astronomical events of the century. The United States claims the discovery of fifteen new comets, some fifty asteroids, over a thousand double and triple stars (many of them being the most remarkable in the whole catalogue of those objects), and last, but not least, three intra-terrestrial planets, by Watson and Swift during the total eclipse of 1878.

It is but a few years since there was not a respectable telescope in the United States. Now it boasts of having the largest refractor in the world, and in the entire country there are but two larger than the one which is being prepared for the dome of the new observatory at Rochester. This observatory has been endowed by H. H. Warner, the well-known proprietor of the Safe Kidney and Liver Cure and other remedies, and both in its design and arrangement marks a new departure in astronomical construction. The new telescope alone will cost about $15,000, and is to be in charge of Prof. Lewis Swift, who, by his discoveries of comets and two intra-terrestrial planets, has become known to all lovers of science in America. The tube of the new instrument is twenty-two feet in length, and the lens sixteen inches in diameter.

The locality of Rochester is not the most favorable for discoveries, as it is subject to storms which obscure the sky and thus prevent observations, but very much may be expected from the Warner Observatory in the way of scientific revelations during the next few years.

TRY IT.

We will send the Daily or Weekly GAZETTE until election day for fifty cents. Let everybody try it.

TO VOTERS.

There are only two weeks more in which to register. Only 721 voters have registered in this precinct, up to this date. At the last Presidential election there were 944 registered voters in this precinct. Where are the 223 voters who have not registered? Let every man register and vote. It is a sacred duty.

Registration closes on the twentieth instant. Don't wait until the last day. Register now. See that all your Republican friends are registered. Every vote should be made to tell this year. Recollect that every voter must have registered this year, to vote in November.

INDIANA AND OHIO.

The election in Indiana, which takes place on Tuesday, the twelfth instant, will have an important bearing on the general result in November. The canvass is being prosecuted by the Republicans with spirit and energy, and there is hope of their carrying the State. The Democrats are making the most determined efforts to hold it.

The election in Indiana on Tuesday of next week is for Governor, members of Congress and other officers. Ohio's election for Congressmen and State officers comes on the same day. Should both these States give Republican majorities, the Presidential election may be considered sure for Garfield. The Democrats have no chance of victory without New York, and Republican victory this month in Indiana and Ohio would give New York to Garfield. During the last 25 years, with but one exception, the whole country has gone in November as Indiana has gone in October.

The following table gives the results of the last six Presidential elections, and the State elections preceding them, in Indiana:

1856, Oct., Dem. majority.....	5,872
1856, Nov., Dem. majority.....	24,295
1860, Oct., Rep. majority.....	8,767
1860, Nov., Rep. majority.....	11,229
1864, Oct., Rep. majority.....	20,883
1864, Nov., Rep. majority.....	20,189
1868, Oct., Rep. majority.....	961
1868, Nov., Rep. majority.....	9,572
1872, Oct., Dem. majority.....	1,148
1872, Nov., Rep. majority.....	22,515
1876, Oct., Dem. majority.....	5,189
1876, Nov., Dem. majority.....	5,555

The latest election held in Indiana is that of 1878. "Hard times" had reduced the Republican vote, and the Greenbackers that year polled a vote of 39,415. The Democratic plurality was then 14,113. Elections held in other western States since 1878 have shown a great change in favor of the Republicans, and it is not unreasonable to expect that the approaching election in Indiana will demonstrate a like change in that State. Business has improved; wages are better; more hands are employed; the crops have been good, and prices are high. Prosperous people are not apt to want a change. When things go wrong, the "change" argument is likely to have some effect. This year people are satisfied to let well enough alone.

The chances of Republican success in Indiana are helped by the fact that the Democratic nominees on the State ticket are personally unpopular with the Greenbackers. Landers, the Democratic candidate for Governor, besides being a notorious Copperhead, has broken his pledges to the Greenback party this year. Porter, the Republican candidate for Governor, has at least the respect of the Greenbackers.

On the day of the Indiana election, Ohio elects members of Congress and State officers. The Democrats expect defeat in Ohio. They confess defeat in advance by the conduct of their campaign. They have concentrated all their energies to hold Indiana, and are doing feeble work in Ohio. In Ohio the Republicans gained 69,141 in 1879, over the vote of 1868. Counting on a proportionate Republican gain in Indiana, the Republicans may fairly expect to have a plurality of about 3,000 in that State next week.

Poetic license is somewhat strained when a Nevada race track is referred to as "the turf."

A JEALOUS WOMAN'S WORK.

The Shooting of George Hamilton by His Wife, in Sacramento.

The Bee gives the following account of the man who was shot by his wife in Sacramento last Friday: "George Hamilton, the deceased, was an engineer in the employ of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, and ran the express trains between Sacramento and Truckee. He was a sober, industrious man, thoroughly competent, had the confidence of his employers and enjoyed the esteem of a large circle of acquaintances in Sacramento and at places on the line of the railroad. He was a man about 35 years of age, a native of Massachusetts, of medium height, light complexion, and reserved in his manner.

Mrs. Nancy A. Hamilton, who did the shooting, is a woman of about the ordinary height, about 27 years of age, light complexion, with blue-gray eyes, full figure and a nervous, animated, excitable manner. The couple were married in the east about fifteen years ago, and after living together a number of years they separated, on account of inharmony in their marital relations. He came to California about nine years ago and left her in the east, and for a long time held no communication with her. During the time they were separated she procured a divorce from him, he making no objections to her so doing. Subsequently, however, the correspondence between them was renewed, Hamilton again courting her (by letter), sent for her to come to California, and on her arrival in Sacramento they were again married.

For a time their second married life was happy, but the woman's jealous disposition soon cropped out, and by her actions she made his life exceedingly unhappy, accusing him of preferring the society of other women to that of her, and following him about from place to place in search of proof of her surmises. Things continued to go on in this way until about a year ago, when a young girl named Nettie Winklepleck went to live with Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton. George was very kind to her, and although she was employed to help Mrs. Hamilton do her work, she was treated as one of the family.

It appears from the remainder of the Bee's long account of the affair, that Mrs. Hamilton became so jealous of the girl that she discharged her, and subsequently went to the house where she lived and shot her twice, inflicting dangerous wounds, from which the girl afterwards recovered. Mrs. Hamilton was acquitted, on her trial, the plea being "emotional insanity," resulting from natural causes peculiar to females. Ever since her acquittal, she had made it hot for her husband, following him about at night, and at times drawing a revolver on him to compel him to go home with her. A month ago she snapped a pistol in his face, but failed to discharge it. Hamilton some weeks ago concluded that his wife was too demonstrative in her manifestations of affection, and accordingly refused to live with her any longer, continuing, however, to pay her bills, and treating her kindly when they met.

On Friday last, in response to a note from his wife, Hamilton called on her. In the course of a brief interview they quarreled several times. The fatal termination of the affair is thus described: "Hamilton then got up and went out on the porch, his wife following him, putting her arms about his neck and coaxing him to come back. A crowd collected at the gate, and at McLaughlin's suggestion Hamilton again went into the house, and the two sat inside conversing for some time. Again they quarreled, and again Hamilton arose to go out. She put her arms about his neck and persistently begged him not to leave her, but to her appeals he turned a deaf ear, and continued moving down the hallway. She then drew a revolver from her pocket, placed the muzzle of the weapon close to his left cheek and fired, the bullet entering his face just below and behind the cheek bone, and the powder scorching his flesh. Hamilton then fell to the floor, whereupon she again cocked the weapon, stooped over his prostrate body, held the pistol close to his head, and again fired; the second bullet entering his head about two inches behind the left ear, passing through the base of the brain, killing him instantly. She then went out on the porch, walked up and down, wringing her hands and crying, her little girl following her, and continually exclaiming: 'My papa is dead!'

Mrs. Hamilton was arrested and lodged in jail.

Where the Horses Are.

Fred B. has gone to Greenville, where he will trot next week. "Bobby John" is going to San Francisco. The running horses were due at San Jose last night and will be in the races there this week. A few horses still remain at the track, but all will be gone in a day or two.

CLOSE OF THE FAIR.

The Last Day's Races—Trotting in the Twilight—Bicycle Riding—The Wind-up at the Pavilion—List of Stock Premiums Awarded.

The attendance at the Fair grounds on Saturday showed a slight falling off. At 10 o'clock the stock parade took place, and the award of premiums in that class was made.

The first race was a quarter mile and repeat between Cousin Vic and Ballot Box, Jr., easily won by Vic in 25 1/4 and 25.

The next contest was a trot, mile heats, three in five, in which the starters were Woodburn, Quincy Chief and McClellan. Woodburn won the first, second and fourth heats and the race; McClellan the third heat and second money. Time 2:44, 2:42 1/2, 2:48, 2:46 1/2.

The last trot was for the 2:40 class, mile heats, three in five. Belle Spencer, Fred B. and Trump started. Spencer won the first heat, Trump second. The three following heats were easily won by Fred B., Trump coming in second in each. It was almost 6 o'clock and growing dark when the last heat was finished. Time 2:32 1/2, 2:31, 2:31, 2:31, 2:31.

In the course of the afternoon C. M. Fassett of Reno gave an interesting exhibition of bicycle riding, performing a number of difficult feats on the unruly wheel, and riding a mile around the course in 5:01 1/2. Professor Ring accompanied him on horseback, riding at an easy lope. Mr. Fasset, wore dark blue tights, and as he sped over the track he seemed to be without visible means of support, save the swiftly revolving wheel which rolled beneath him.

AT THE PAVILION

on Saturday evening there was a large gathering of people, availing themselves of the last opportunity to see the display. Considerable interest was manifested in the bread on exhibition. The premiums were awarded as announced in Saturday's GAZETTE. M. J. Luke sent in, on the last day, for exhibition, an assortment of horse shoes of every variety of size and pattern. Many of them were beautifully polished, but the finest work on them to the practical smith was the smoothness of the forging on those shoes which were entirely unpolished. Nothing new was noted in the exhibits on the upper floor.

The following is the list of premiums awarded in the First Department:
